Company profile

ARTLANGS

ARTLANGS is a top language Services brand established by Shenzhen CCJK Technologies Co., Ltd. With the aim of providing premium native translation and localization Services, ARTLANGS is committed to building a network of “native translators across the world” and providing top-level accurate and localized language Services for multinational groups, enterprises, public institutions, government agencies, research institutes, universities, social organizations and individuals.

ARTLANGS has 11,219 top native translators from almost all countries of the world, with the number still growing. We provide Services in more than 300 languages around the world. Our translators are engaged after rigorous appraisal, and all full-time translators hold professional certificates in translation such as CATTI/NAATI, ensuring accurate and high-quality language Services throughout the process for users from different countries and industries.

ARTLANGS

In the process of economic and cultural globalization, human cooperation has become more and more frequent. However, communication barriers exist between different countries due to different languages and regional cultures. By providing excellent language Services, ARTLANGS aims to help customers overcome language barriers and promote their products and Services in the global market.

Special advantages of ARTLANGS

We are convinced that being grammatically correct is far from enough for it is only the most basic requirement of translation Services, so all our translation projects are completed manually by native translators. This means that we understand the meaning implied in the documents better than translation tools, and that our translation follows the local culture with the local common terms or sentence patterns. Only in this way can the translation reflect the true meaning of the content and resonate with readers to achieve effective communication.

Translation usually refers to document translation, including the translation of information, business documents, etc. The conversion between source and target languages plays a very important role in both product internationalization and international cooperation. We can accurately translate any of your documents into any language you would like.

Over the past 20 years, ARTLANGS has gained rich experience in project processing across multiple industries and languages, and built powerful corpora in different fields to ensure the accuracy and rigor of translations for customers.

In addition to content translation, we also provide desktop publishing Services to deliver information for you in the language used in the target market and in a required format, so as to break language barriers and assist in your global business strategy.

Interpretation Services

Any language barrier in international cooperation?
You may need an interpreter to deliver your messages instantly

Unlike translation, interpretation requires instant delivery of information, without any chance of hesitation and modification. The interpreter's translation skills and experience are critical to successful interpretation. Our interpreters are equipped with not only expertise, but also a good understanding of international etiquette, proper behaviour and elegant speech.

No matter on what occasions you need the interpretation, international conferences, business negotiations, exhibitions, reception of foreign guests, factory inspections, over-the-phone, or videos, etc., we can always provide you with the most suitable interpreter based on your requirements and preferences as to the interpreter's language proficiency, interpretation experience, industry-specific knowledge and interpersonal skills. ARTLANGS has developed long-term cooperation with local interpreters in major cities at home and abroad to help you deal with various scenarios for international business with ease.
