We Work with Startups, Small Business and Enterprises

Mid-Sized Businesses

For all those mid-sized businesses which dream of making it big, IT Quick Solution brings forth its target-specific services priced at the most moderate rates.

Enterprises

Working with a whole suite of ERPs, CRMs, databases and cloud technologies, IT Quick Solution efficiently handles the complexity of web development presented by enterprises.

Engagement Model

We provide four alternative engagement models, allowing companies and startups to select the one that best matches their project needs.

1. Fixed Cost

The name of the engagement model speaks for itself: if consumers declare a certain price (or, at the very least, a price range), a software development outsourcer will commit to supplying a set of services within the agreed-upon bid invoicing.

- According to the fixed bid project model, if there is a comprehensive specification, the price for developer's work is consistent.
- Once the contract is given, there is a rigorous timeline for completing the job.
- Companies are not required to reimburse any additional expenditures above what is specified in the agreement.

2. Hourly Rate

In this engagement style, you may contact directly with the hired expert and discuss your needs. You may also make adjustments during the development process and opt for extra features if necessary.

IT Quick Solution's manager will operate under your supervision and make changes/fixes following the specifications of your project. The overall cost is exactly proportionate to the time and resources required to complete the project under this paradigm.

- Ideal for needs that are frozen or have a very specific set of requirements.
- The client pays a set fee.
- Minimal risk exposure
- The extremely clear development procedure

3. Dedicated

You may employ a whole team, including Android and iPhone developers, a backend web developer, a UI/UX designer, a quality analyst, and a project manager, under this approach. IT Quick Solution gives you a project manager to overlook your project needs, and he or she will oversee the entire team and the project.

- Hiring a specialized team from an outsourced software development business is far less expensive than hiring in-house expertise
- The project team will be entirely focused on your project.
